An Apology!

Sorry for the delay with this edition of the Courtenay Chronicles but Andrew and I have been on Holiday this month to Sunny Spain which has delayed things rather but boy was it needed! It was just glorious to be under the blue, blue sky and by the blue, blue sea. Paddling in the warm(ish) waters and taking in some rays, not that you know to look at my pasty flesh ... thanks to my 10560 factor sun cream! Holidaying in Nerja we took in the INCREDIBLE caves (see picture) which gave new meaning to the phrase Cathedral of the Earth, there I encountered the Stone angels, the Silent Angels who like antibodies of the Earth monitor the deep currents of power which run through the planet! Incredible! all those of you who have cleared your claustrophobia karma go see these or other caves, I assure you the experience will stay with you forever!

What Do You Know It's Easter!

Can you believe it? Easter already! And it only seems like January when the first Easter Eggs appeared in our supermarkets!! How time flies :o-) but no it is indeed true and here we are approaching a very important time in the Christian Calendar, Easter is a time of death and resurrection, when the Master Jesus allowed his death to become the greatest lesson he would leave behind in the legacy of his short life on Earth as well as an enduring and eternal moment of redemption where he took the energy of the Christ deep down into the darkest realms of limbo, so laden was he with the negative energy of mankind's guilt, shame and fear and injected into the dark realm the light of the Christ. Liberating those Spirits trapped there and leaving there forever an enduring flame for all those that would follow to liberate themselves by. The energy then of this great act now radiates outwards forwards and backwards in time for ever that mankind at this moment might ride its wave, catch its power and use it to redeem themselves and rededicate their journey and commitment to the path of light. This is then a great time of spiritual renewal and affirmation, let us all in our small way use it to rededicate ourselves to the will and plan of the divine and the part that we might play within it!

Moving On ...

Strangely in keeping with the spiritual theme of Easter I have decided that this tern at the College of Psychic Studies will be my last! I have a few more workshops booked at the College and one or two reading days (fully booked) after which I will continue my work in London (readings, lectures and workshops) at Treadwells Bookshop an AMAZING occult bookshop nestling in the heart of London's Theatre land just off Covent Garden (see below for more details of up and coming work at the new venue). I have loved (almost) every minute of my three years at the College and felt truly honoured to have been invited to work there by Suzanna the former President and walk the hallowed halls where so many great names (Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Colonel Oldacott, Doris Stokes) have walked before me but now its time to move on. Its strange how sometimes it takes a rather negative incident (Spirits less than gentle push) to get you to see that things are over due a change, I will miss greatly my good friends on the reception desk, who I thank from the bottom of my heart for their kindness and support, the facilitators whose hard work behind the scenes have made my workshops and lectures smooth and seamless and my dear pals Angela Palmer, Becky Walsh and recently dear Milly for all their kindness, support and the wonderful opportunities they have extended to me by being my friends and believing in me. I would also like to salute those others who have left for pastures new and who made my journey there such a special one, Octavia, Michael, Eavie, Cheryl and Marianne. So long College of Psychic Studies and thanks for all the fish I'll miss you x

Revelations & Things To Watch For!

This has been for me quite the month for revelations and big decisions for me, one of the biggest things being that recently my path has become diverted and distracted and I have made the mistake of seeing my calling as a career! Thankfully my Guardian Angel pointed out where I was going wrong on a Spanish balcony whilst the Sun was setting (something I will be eternally grateful for) and what with my recent decisions I now feel back on track! I have also decided to resume later in the year my "by donation only" healing service, something you might want to keep your eyes peeled for further notices on! I have never claimed to be a miraculous healer but my power of sight can at times offer a unique perspective in to the nature of peoples ill health offering me clear direction on how to treat it! As the more astute of you may have also noticed Andrew and I have revived the absent reading service, now advertised on our shop and we will be adding more dates for these as well as more reading dates at Treadwells in London real soon!

Francesca's Great Give Away!

My dear, dear friend Francesca Hardy has very kindly offered a free give away of samples of her amazing Brewcraft products Child of Bones to the first person who sees this Chronicle and emails Andrew back claiming the prize! Francesca is a powerful channel for the energy of the Old Gods and under direct instruction has created a set of magickal brews that can be used to invoke and manifest a variety of powerful energies, direct from the Old Gods, into your life, from energy, to harmony, justice, confidence, power, the sight, old magick, virility and creativity and much, much more. Check out her website (www.childofbones.com) for more details of her outstanding work as both channel and magickal brew master, not to mention some of the other mouth watering products that she has to sell!

Talking of shopping opportunities ...

Have you seen these AMAZING magickal paintings of Angel feathers created by local spiritual artist Belinda Darington? I am pleased to say I was the first to get my hands on one of these little darlings for my meditation room, each one is unique, no two the same and imbued with the loving energy of the Angelic realm. Mine so invokes for me the presence of my Guardian Angel that its like having him in the room beside me ... oh the fuzzy feeling of love! Drop Belinda an email to find out how to get hold of one of these little gems for yourself!

Time to get funky and down with a little Trance Dance!

Another good friend of mine (gee ain't I got a lot of friends this month) has just started putting on Trance Dance evenings in London (The Highbury Roundhouse Community Centre - 18th April & 16th May 2008) These fantastic evenings use free movement to induce trance for personal spiritual ecstatic experiences as well as freeing our hang ups regarding our own body movement and freedom. They are powerful, safe environments wonderfully facilitated by trained and loving ladies to encourage profound and powerful experiences! Truly Magickal!

And Finally ... ME!

This month Andrew and I have added a few more spells to the website page, a new channelling contributed by the ever amazing Rachel Goodwin and eventually the new Apostle, a little bit later in the month honest! Up and coming workshops this and next month include ... The Return of the Christ Light Workshop at Ewell in Surrey on the 29th of March, a fantastic opportunity to find out more about the energy of this year, the return of the Christ Light energy and what we can do to use this great power for our own awakening and spiritual growth, contact Carole Humber for details. The Ascension workshop on the 6th of April at Sheffield exploring the nature of ascension as well as receiving a light workers tools box of techniques and powers that can drawn upon to help with self development as well as coping with those pesky ascension symptoms, contact Sue Hodgson for details and then up and coming a workshop for Alternatives in London on Psychical

Development on the 12th of April and later on the 26th a workshop on Awakening the Hidden Chakra - the Gateway To the Void for ladies only in Huddersfield, see the calendar on my website for further details!

Book Yourself Online Readings

You can now book a live or absent reading with Edwin at Treadwells online! Go to www.ipssissimus.co.uk enter the shop and locate the READINGS page. The places become booked very quickly and so you can ask to be put on a mailing list. When we allocate the next set of dates I will email you and let you know. It will then be up to you to go online and book yourself a place - first online first booked basis.

The same principle applies to Edwin's workshops at Treadwells. Go to www.ipssissimus.co.uk enter the shop and locate the TREADWELLS WORKSHOPS page and follow the instructions. There is no waiting list for the workshops once the place have gone they've gone!

We will be adding new dates for the live and absent readings shortly.

That's all folks!

Well folks I think that's about enough for this months Chron ... have an eggastic Easter, eats lots of Hot Cross Buns and far too much chocolate and enjoy the season, bright blessings to one and all, blessed be Edwin C xxx
